LANGUAGE COACHING

You may already know Nouveau Language as a translation agency, but our expertise in multilingualism also includes language coaching. Whether your organisation needs a short refresher course or longer periods of training, we are happy to meet your needs.

Highly experienced

We have extensive experience in providing language courses that are customised to the needs of each specific workplace. Our teachers are experienced in adult education, and are dedicated to ensuring the progress of each individual learner. No matter what your coaching needs are, we will strive to meet them!

Learner-focused

We design each course to take account of the personal learning goals of each learner and their starting level. For maximum effectiveness, we ensure that all the participants in a group are approximately at the same starting level. The learning methods are also tailored to your wishes in all aspects of the coaching, such as conversational exercises and grammar assignments.

Goal-driven

The goal of providing language training at workplaces is to meet the specific needs of the organisation's language learners as closely as possible. Meetings and corporate presentations run smoothly when employees have practised the various language using situations in advance.
