

ISO Certified expertise • Personal customer service • Timely deliveries

MEDICAL TRANSLATIONS

Proven expertise in a highly specialised field

Our numerous customers working in the medical field have praised the high quality of our medical translations. Our translators specialised in medical translation have a good command of medical texts and related special requirements and industry-specific terminology. They are capable of selecting the appropriate style for each text and use templates developed by the European Medicine Agency (EMA) when necessary. Many of our customers in the medical field have chosen Nouveau as their primary partner for medical translations.

When quality and accuracy are crucial

A prerequisite for a high quality translation is to find the most qualified professionals for each text type. This is where Nouveau succeeds. From our extensive network of professionals we are able to find the translator with the most experience in terminology in your text. Our ISO 9001:2008 certified process guarantees that demanding medical translations are completed with precision and accuracy.

A wide variety of our value-added services allow you to ensure that your communications are fluent and effective in any language. For example, proofreading and terminology, as well as desktop publishing and typesetting services, may be included in the translation project. Our services also include Medical Writing.

Flexible and timely deliveries

Our services adapt flexibly to the customer's needs, and thanks to our extensive network of experts, our delivery reliability is first rate.

Our customers who have chosen Nouveau as their translation partner

